

Abstract

Evaluation for prevention programs of industrial accident (V)

- Educational and public relations parts -

Objective: The prevention programs of industrial accident began to decrease occupationally accidented workers. Since 2012, it performed from occupational health parts to services parts for prevention of industrial accident in phases. In this research, it was phase for educational and public relations parts that covered Occupational Health and Safety educational programs, Media development and dissemination by industrial classification, Media development and dissemination by weakness groups for industrial accident, Safety culture program for youth, Financial support program of safety and health at workplace, and integrated public relations programs.

Methods: We reviewed official reports for educational and public relations parts of prevention programs of industrial accident. In present research, prevention programs of industrial accident were evaluated using the existing standard from the research of evaluation for prevention programs of industrial accident (I) in 2012.

Results: The better part of this evaluation, the programs about educational and public relations received excellent grade for its effectiveness, efficiency, and satisfaction. In some parts, it were recommended improvement including qualitative assessment, monitoring system, and feedback in common.

Conclusions: The results of present study suggested that prevention programs of industrial accident will effectively help for prevention of industrial accident through supplementations of improvements.

Key words : Evaluation for prevention programs of industrial accident, , educational parts, public relations parts.